5th Congress of the European Society on Family Relations - ESFR 2010 29 September – 2 October, Milano

The ESFR represents a multidisciplinary organization of family researchers: <http://www.esfr.org/>. It aims at promoting excellence in the scientific study on family relations by encouraging scientific cooperation between European family scientists.

Its 5th Congress took place in Milan perfectly organized by the Athenaeum Center for Family Studies and Research of the Catholic University of Milan in co-operation with the European Society on Family Relations (ESFR). The objective of the conference was to present innovative research on family relations and facilitate the exchange of today's knowledge and current ideas in the vast and still-expanding area of research on family relations. The topic of the conference included perspectives from different branches of psychology and sociology, as well as from other disciplines studying this subject. <http://esfr2010.unicatt.it/>

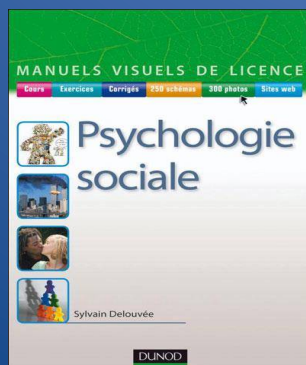

The conference focused on the transitions that the family faces during the life course, the identification of resources and risks associated with them, and the processes families go through whenever a transition occur. Special emphasis was on the family transitions considered as major events in the family life cycle and on the way, at a more social level, families facing such processes and crises cope with change and transform relationships passing from one stage to the next.

The conference has highlighted the latest research findings and addressed topics that are of interest to researchers and those active in different fields of application.

In the perspective of promoting scientific co-operation between ESFR and the So.Re.Com.THEmatic NETWORK, prof. de Rosa has participated to the conference together with other members of the European PhD on Social Representations and Communication Research Centre and Multimedia Lab, with a contribution entitled "Current, Future and Ideal Family: Zeitgeist and Social Representations", presenting some results of a recent research program carried out in co-operation with Marialibera d'Ambrosio and Stefania Aiello.
